Bad Breath Fixer Say Goodbye To Bad Breath

Not only did that ruin the first impression I wanted to make, I was humiliated in front of my new boss. I appreciate he let me know behind closed doors a stand up move which saved me from even more embarrassment in front of my team. But I still can remember the shame I felt to this day. No one wants to have dragon breath. Or to be called out on it. Yet here I was. My coworkers had been trying to tell me for years. The mints they'd toss my way. The sticks of gum that'd get handed round. A comment or a glance here and there. I had unknowingly been sending cloud after cloud of bad breath over my colleagues for years. They were just too polite to tell me. And I didn't care enough to notice.[...]
